Rodriguez gets life for Summers murder

By BRENDA HEACOCK
Fourteen-year-old Freddie A. Rodriguez of Pearlington received a life sentence Friday, after entering a plea of guilty for the stabbing death of Eldora Summers.

Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos accepted Rodriguez's plea, explaining there is a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment for pleading guilty to murder.

The guilty plea was entered Friday after the charge was reduced to murder. Rodriguez had been indicted for capital murder in February.

Rodriguez was a seventh grade student at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington. He was a neighbor of 69-year-old Summers.

Summers died in August 1986 from multiple stab wounds to the neck and face and loss of blood.

Rodriguez must serve 10 years of his life sentence with the Mississippi Department of Corrections before he will be eligible for parole.

Burned-out family seeks help in rebuilding home

By DENA BISNETTE
Roberta Kieff of Shoreline Park wants to rebuild again.

Kieff's Ocean Street home, damaged extensively by flooding this year, was totally destroyed last week by a Saturday morning fire that injured her three-year-old grandson Michael.

The child still had one hand bandaged Thursday when Kieff, her mother Louise French and other family members went to sift through the ashes to see what was salvageable.

A few charred tools, a couple of dishes and a metal cross were all they found in the remains of the wooden house, which was being prepared for a two-room addition as soon as the family could afford it.

"This used to be a back porch," Kieff said as she picked her way through ashes, charred bits of metal and broken glass. That was a little barbecue there, but we tore it down when we decided to make the place bigger."

"She lost so much in the flood last year. Everything was new except the living room furniture, which was second hand," French said.

"She had a lot of antiques what-nots, things she's had for years. They were stored while she remodeled and they had just been brought back into the house."

The family's pick-up truck, pulled up to the front of the house to have its tires changed, was also heavily damaged. Whether the vehicle is repairable has not yet been determined, but the plastic and rubber parts in its front grill were melted by the fire's heat.

Among the items with sentimental value that were lost were family photographs, Bibles and a 1916 piano that had belonged to Kieff's grandmother.

"That fire generated a lot of heat. Look at how it melted my new stove," Kieff said.

She pointed to a burned-out metal box. "That was my new refrigerator," she said.

One of Kieff's sons, Tony Cardinale of Piquette, is a minister and was holding a weekly Bible class at her home. He lost a number of Bibles and his teaching license.

Cardinale found one of the books, still readable, but said the pages crumbled when he touched it.

There were seven people in the house when the fire, which occurred about 1:30 a.m., was discovered by Kieff's son Earl Johnson.

Johnson, who was visiting his mother, heard his three-year-old grandson crying from a back bedroom at the house. When he went to check on the child, he found the headboard of the toddler's bed in flames and the boy's hair on fire.

Kieff said Michael was crouched on the floor, head beating at his head with his hand, and he was burned on his head and face. He was trying to get his hair out," Kieff said.

Action delayed on county sewer district

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has had to delay action on a proposed county sewerage district until Wednesday, March 18.

According to Board of Supervisors Attorney Gerald Gex, the resolution concerning the county district had not been completed for Friday's meeting because Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Attorney Lucien Gex was hospitalized in New Orleans, La.

Gerald Gex said he learned Thursday that Lucien Gex did not have the resolution ready. For that reason, the petition requesting the formation of the county district was not presented to the board Friday.

Gerald Gex said the petition was still in the hands of members of civic associations for some of the four subdivisions targeted for the county's first sewerage systems.

According to Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise, setting up the district has been delayed for various reasons since June.

While lack of a prepared resolution delayed action, it did not delay a discussion of the district's boundaries.

On hand for the discussion were Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr., who with Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar are the board members of the wastewater management district.

Frankiewicz has contended at two meetings, one wastewater board meeting and one intergovernmental discussion group meeting, that the city should be allowed to include a proposed subdivision on Blue Meadow Road in its service area.

The wastewater board gave Frankiewicz permission to include three sections of county with only a few houses in the city service area, but those areas are already hooked up to city sewerage.

The district had refused to allow the proposed subdivision to become part of the city's service area because Kellar and Longo contended that the county will need all possible customers to reduce costs.

Frankiewicz contended that the county had never planned to take those customers, stating, "None of the customers we are talking about were included in the 576 original customers expected or the 880 calculated for future growth."

"The real thing that is going to cost the county will be the high cost of improvements, not if a few county residents go with one of the cities."

He gave $8,000 per customer as the original estimate for implementation of county sewerage in more populated areas like Shoreline Park and Garden Isles subdivisions.

"That's more for a collection system for five or six customers than for using the treatment facility," the mayor said.

He gave $6,000 as the second estimate, formulated after addition of statistics on anticipated growth over the next 20 years, and asked the county to reconsider that in view of the fact that the same type of work was found to cost Bay St. Louis about $2,000 per customer.

Frankiewicz alleged that wastewater district consultant Ray Eaton had not included the Blue Meadow Road area in sewerage improvements proposed during the next 20 years.

"You're forgetting that the county paid 10 percent on your lines for the cost of that future growth," Kellar stated.

"I want to reiterate that every house we lose in this district is going to cost the county money."

He asked Frankiewicz if the city was prepared to annex the three areas already served by city sewerage as well as the proposed development on Blue Meadow Road.

Frankiewicz said that he feels the city will ultimately annex those areas but is not prepared to do so at this time.

He stated that he will probably then have to accept a compromise proposed by Longo during the two previous meetings, which calls for the city to provide the sewerage now and then turn the proposed Blue Meadow Road subdivision over to the county once that district's collection system is in place.

"It's one of those deals where your losing your shirt, but we can at least try to keep the underwear on the city of Bay St. Louis," Frankiewicz stated.

Wastewater District Administrator Ethel Schott stated that the four subdivisions are planned for immediate development, and the plans for the remainder of the incorporated area south of Interstate-10 are being prepared as part of a State Health Department-Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control requirement for the permitting of individual onsite wastewater disposal systems in the rest of the county.

Altering the proposed county district in any way could affect whether the wastewater district receives authority to permit the individual systems, which the bureau says have become the only acceptable alternative in areas where septic tanks do not function properly and sewerage does not exist.

Another problem discussed but not resolved was a dispute over whether a transportation charge should be levied on county sewerage traveling through city-owned pipes to reach the treatment plant.

Longo has stated that he does not presently plan to levy such a charge, but Frankiewicz says he feels one is necessary to keep the city customers' costs down.

Longo contends that 85 percent grant funding from U.S. Environmental Protection Agency can reduce the cost of the county system "well below $2,000," and requested that the transportation cost problem be taken under advisement.

Kellar had stated earlier that he plans to try to have the county system bypass Bay St. Louis pipelines if a transportation cost is to be charged.

Supervisors choose water system over new welfare building

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has changed its decision regarding whether to pursue a Community Development Block Grant for a water system or a new County Welfare Department Building.

Earlier this month, the board had decided to apply for funds to replace the county's welfare department building, a deteriorated structure on Necaise Avenue that once served as a creamery.

The board changed its decision Friday, voting unanimously to inside try to secure funds for a water system for the Catahoula and Steep Hollow communities, located on the Hancock-Pearl River county line on Highway 53.

The board had already agreed to advertise for a consultant for the water system grant application, previously handled by Harvey Nixon, an independent consultant based in Piquette.

According to Steep Hollow resident Burnell Smith, the two communities have worked together to try to obtain the funds for a water system for the past five years.

Grant applications have been made twice before. One was turned down last year because Pearl River County, which made application jointly with Hancock County, had not spent enough of the funds from a previous grant.

The county may apply for only one Community Development Block Grant each year.

The board's present plans for the welfare department include two possibilities, Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca said.

The first is to house the department, along with several other county agencies, in the Hancock General Hospital building if a legal advertisement in some of the area's largest newspapers fails to attract a buyer.

If the building is sold, the proceeds will be used for a new welfare department facility.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge assured Welfare Department Director Wallace Bradley that the building's damaged roof will be fixed if Hancock General Hospital becomes the department's new quarters.

Other problems, including a climate control system Bradley says is not satisfactory, will be fixed as repairs become economically feasible.

In other business Friday, the board: —Amended Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson's budget to allow the hiring of three new jailers;

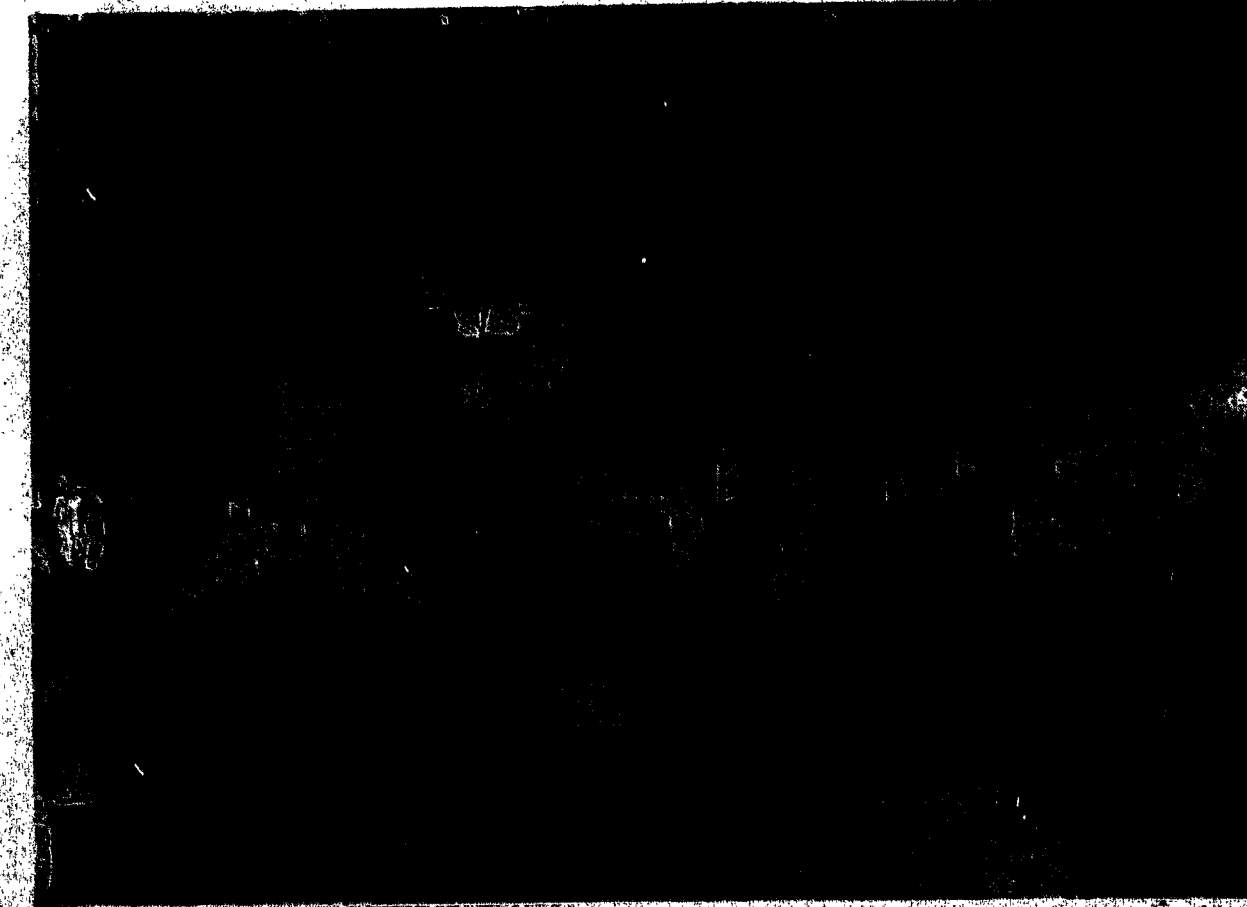

—Heard but took no action on a request from Joe Manieri, whose family owns land in NASA's buffer zone, for an endorsement of a letter he has written to NASA officials requesting release of buffer zone property to its previous owners;

—Accepted a report from Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department Representative Peter LeStelle regarding a state inspection that qualifies the department for certification.

LANDSCAPING—Hancock County Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniclaro checks on one of the magnolia trees planted on the US-90 frontage of Hancock Medical Center. Perniclaro said the highway frontage and the median between Drinkwater Road and a boulevard leading into the hospital grounds have been landscaped by the county with magnolias, oaks, redwoods and azaleas. Some of the trees were donated by Soil Conservation Service, some were moved when the hospital was built and others were supplied by the county. Installed along with the trees were 14 poles with double lights for the frontage and boulevard. The City of Bay St. Louis will provide some of the lighting cost and the county will maintain the bulbs, Perniclaro said. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

ONE INJURED—Gwen Bender, 20, of Arlington, Texas was slightly injured Saturday in a two-car accident on Interstate 10 near the Diamondhead Exit. Bender was a passenger in a Datsun driven by Russell A. Guthrie, also of Arlington. Guthrie was not injured. The vehicle

"Earl grabbed him and got him out of there just in time."

The toddler was taken to Hancock Medical Center for treatment of his burned hand and was released.

Those who escaped the fire in addition to Kieff, Johnson and her grandson included two of her daughters and two friends spending the night with her younger daughter.

The three younger girls were sleeping in a front parlor, but normally would have slept in the bedroom next to the room where the fire started.

Kieff said she does not know yet what started the fire.

"We think it might have been a night light in the baby's room, but we don't know," she stated.

"I just thank God that they were all okay," she added, looking around at family members.

Kieff added that it was fortunate that a butane gas tank near the house was almost empty and did not explode.

"It seems like I've been trying so hard lately and everything goes wrong. Somebody told me the other day that maybe I've been trying too hard."

"We have to get it here and start cleaning this up. As soon as I can get some materials, I want to rebuild."

The family needs clothing, bedding, furniture, dishes and other household items.

Women's pants, skirts or dresses in size 7-8 and medium blouses are needed, as well as maternity clothes in small and medium for one of Kieff's daughters. Men's pants in size 28-30 and medium shirts and needed, as well as child's size 3 pants and size four shirts.

"Any building materials or donated labor would also be appreciated," said French, who is providing temporary quarters for the family.

Donations may be dropped off at French's home on Poe Street. The address is Rt. 6, Box 788, Bay St. Louis. Her telephone number is 467-2066.

French said she is also trying to find an old mobile home that Kieff can use.

"It could be a donation or something that she could purchase on time. Even if it's not fit for living in, we would like something to use for storage until she can find someplace to live," French explained.

She said she is particularly concerned about her daughter because Kieff is recovering from chest injuries received in a recent automobile accident and her ability to work is limited.

The accident has kept Kieff from working at her regular job as a bus driver at Gulfview Elementary School because her injuries make it difficult for her to operate the vehicle's shift.

RAILWAY MUSEUM—The Mississippi Railway Museum departed from Bay St. Louis Saturday on its way to a new home in Meridian. The train has been operating out of Port Blenville Industrial Park for the past few years but continued expansion forced the museum to find a new home. During the time the "Lady," as the steam engine is known, made its historic runs in Hancock County, more than 9,000 took the ride. Although the Railway Museum started with only the steam engine and two passenger coaches, it now features a tender, eight coaches, a dining car and a bright red caboose. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Bay council to consider zoning recommendations

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council will vote Tuesday on recommendations by the Planning and Zoning Commission to approve a patio subdivision and extension of Westwood Village and to deny a beachfront zoning request.

The commission voted last week to recommend for approval a preliminary plat of patio home presented by Frank Schuffert. However the commission said its acceptance of the plat is contingent on the Board of Adjustments supplying a letter stating it would grant necessary variances.

A preliminary plat was also accepted from W. Wilson Wehre, for addition No. 2 of the Westwood Village Subdivision.

Wehre, who requested permission to delay paving of the streets until the subdivision is completed, was instructed to provide a $20,000 performance bond to be held until the street is paved.

Norbert Kohnke's request for a zoning change from single-family residential 100-foot lot to single-family residential 80-foot lot is being recommended for denial.

Several area residents appeared at the commission's Tuesday meeting to protest the division of Kohnke's beachfront lot into three smaller lots.

Secretary Madeline Prendergast reported the commission had also received three letters of protest against the zoning.

The commission based its recommendation for denial on the facts that no error could be found on the zoning map, no hardship could be determined and there had been no change in the neighborhood.

The council meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall.

New beach advisory council to be appointed by officials

By DENA BISNETTE

A new Hancock County Sand Beach Advisory Council is being proposed to help oversee improvements included in the county's sand beach master plan.

Jeff Taylor of South Mississippi Planning and Development District, who is assisting with the shore protection and beach improvement project, met Friday with city and county officials and members of the now-disbanded Technical Advisory Committee, which helped formulate the master plan.

Membership for the new council will be appointed from former TAC members, the group decided.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will appoint five members.

The mayors of Waveland and Bay St. Louis will each have one appointment.

Two additional appointments will be made by the Waveland Board of Aldermen and the Bay St. Louis City Council.

County school expansions a must for our future

It is essential for Hancock Countians to seek educational excellence for our youth, the leaders of tomorrow.

Today the Hancock County School District faces overcrowding, students attending class in hall ways and 21 classes being held in trailers.

Recently 40 acres of prime land was donated to the school system on Niccole Road and Highway 603 across the highway from Stennis Field.

Hancock County is the fastest growing county in school population according to a recent survey conducted by the Social Science Research Center at Mississippi State University.

Enrollment in the school system for school year 1980-81 was 1,997; 1985-86 2,381; and 1986-87 2,565. As you can see the number of students in the system has been on a continuous increase.

In 1986 Gulf Coast Transit Authority conducted a transportation survey based on school system student residency.

The proposed site for the new junior and senior high complex would save thousands of dollars even in gas purchases alone for transportation compared to current facilities.

The county school board is proposing a building program which will include a new junior and senior high complex at Niccole Road and 603; the removal of all trailers at Hancock North Central and renovation of the facilities for an elementary school; two new classrooms at Charles B. Murphy with additional restroom facilities, and six more new classrooms at Gulfview.

The Hancock County Grand Jury of January 1987 recommended the construction of a new junior and senior high school in the county school system.

All citizens of the county need to push for better educational opportunities for our most valued asset, our children, the leaders of tomorrow.

Animals are safer in a pen than on the loose

March 12, 1987

Dear Editor,

Re the letter by Mr. and Ms. Perniciaro about the leash laws. With logic like they used to seemingly justify not keeping animals on a leash or behind fences, it's easy to see why it took both of them to write one letter!

I have dogs and I control them. I don't always keep them on a leash, but they are under by vocal control when we walk.

But, when I see evidence that the law is being enforced I assure you that I will leash them when we go out. The point is I take care of my animals and for good reason.

Contrary to the Perniciaros' thoughts on this matter, the animals are far safer in a pen than on the loose. Besides getting shot with large caliber guns, getting run over by cars, hit with sticks by people out walking, there are many health reasons for keeping pets inside, especially cats.

Have you heard of Parvo virus, feline leukemia, rabies? Then there is the little known fact that keeping pets in fenced areas helps to control fleas, which torments dogs worse than kids teasing them. Fleas also carry worms and diseases.

Besides, if you witnessed people tormenting your pet, why didn't you go out and stop them? You could call the police on such people. There is also a law against cruelty to animals.

I think dogs that run loose should be apprehended and the owners fined and charged for boarding, shots and neutering - the neutering being essential for unregistered dogs that are not at stud.

The owner should be given ample time to locate the pet then the unwanted animal should be euthanized. It should be evident to the "law abiding citizen" that control of animals is the best interest of the whole community.

With regards,
Mark Mason

Humane society needs help of concerned citizens

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

In reply to the letter from Mrs. A.B. Ash in today's paper, the Bay St. Louis warden is bringing in dogs as hard and fast as he can.

Last year he brought in 889 dogs and 751 cats to the Hancock County Animal Shelter.

The Humane Society is sorry that over 50 percent of these animals were not adopted and had to be euthanized.

We are working to build a larger shelter and need all the help we can get.

We're also helping spay and neuter animals to cut down the number of unwanted dogs and cats that uncaring people turn loose to run free.

We feel that you have real concern; won't you join us Monday,

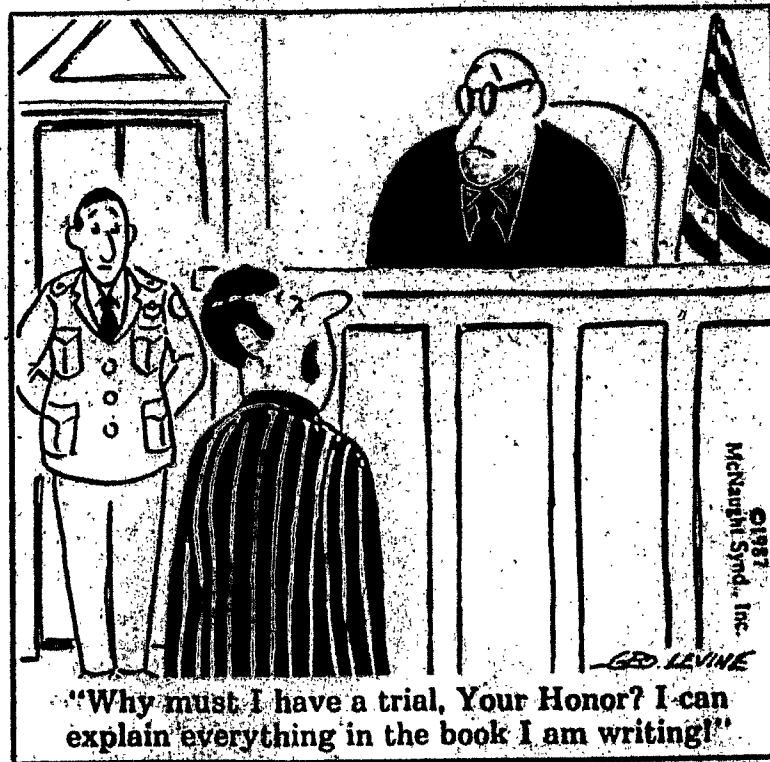

March 16 at 7 p.m. in the Waveland Library to discuss ways to help get the animals off the street.

Yours truly,
Barbara Jo Fitch

The Mississippi Historical Society presented their Award of Merit to Bay St. Louis Architect Fred Wagner in New Orleans yesterday.

The award was presented to Wagner at a joint meeting of the Mississippi Historical Society and Louisiana Historical Association.

Wagner received the award for his outstanding work as the architect for the restoration of the 1902 Gulf and Ship Island Railroad Office Building in Gulfport.

The local architect has been involved in several restorations over the years.

We feel it is an honor for a resident of our area to be recognized for his outstanding work.

Congratulation Fred on this prestigious award.

Spring is very close and we have noted the many red bud trees in bloom as well as several others.

Gardening fever appears to also be in the area and we have noted several residents in their yards planning their upcoming planting.

Spring bulbs are now in full bloom, yet the pecan trees still seem to be dormant.

Many of the oldtimers will tell you beware of frost until the pecan trees begin to bud.

It may still be a little early for tender vegetables to be planted without protection in case of a frost.

A few more days of dry weather and I will be turning my vegetable garden site for spring planting.

I hope everyone will have a good crop this season.

Q: You're probably going to think I'm crazy, I know my regular doctor does, but here goes. Every time I have my period (I'm twenty-seven years old), I cough up blood.

I went to my doctor and he ran a lot of tests for pneumonia, tuberculosis and other things and, by the time the tests came back, the blood had stopped coming up. He said the bleeding was from coughing too hard and put me on a cough suppressant. Everything was fine until I had my next period and I started coughing up the blood again.

My blood count stays normal and my doctor says we have checked for everything had so I should just try not to cough so hard and not be too concerned.

I notice I'm beginning to have much more stomach pain during my periods now also and I can't help worrying about all this. Is there some connection between a woman's womb and her lungs?

A: I agree that you shouldn't ignore recurrent episodes of coughing blood (doctors call that "hemoptysis") and I have a possible explanation for your hemoptysis during periods.

Occasionally women develop womb-tissue (endometrium) at other places in their bodies besides the womb. The most frequent place is in the abdomen near the womb but endometrium can also grow in the lungs where it can cause hemoptysis.

This is called "Catamenial Hemoptysis" and it can often be treated with hormones although occasionally surgery is required. If you have endometrial tissue in your abdomen, it could also explain your stomach pain.

Why don't you see your gynecologist about this problem. He's probably familiar with it and will know how to check for it but he will have to call in a consultant if you do have the chest involvement. Good luck and please let us know how you do.

Q: Can you mention again the special treatment for ingrown toenails. My friend saw it several months ago but she doesn't remember what it was called.

A: It's called "cryosurgery" which just means freezing the involved tissue so it can die and allow healthy tissue to grow back. I've done it many times with nearly a 100 percent success rate.

There are two disadvantages: 1) it takes a long time to heal; sometimes as long as two months and, 2) it really hurts at the time it's done and for several hours afterward. Neither of these is as bad as the ingrown toenail itself, however.

Q: Something happened to my husband in the hospital that scared us to death. Fortunately, everything is okay now but I thought your readers might find this interesting and I'd appreciate your comments. My husband became very ill with fever and cough and was put in the hospital. His doctor diagnosed pneumonia and started him on an IV drip of a medicine called "erythromycin."

He started getting better almost immediately and his fever went down over night but on the third hospital day, he became almost completely deaf! We had noticed the night before that he had the television turned up too loud but the next day, he could hear us only if we shouted directly in his ear.

A nerve specialist was called and he told us the deafness was because of the erythromycin and it should go away when it was discontinued. The doctor switched medicines and we spent three tense days waiting for improvement. Then, when he woke up on the fourth day, he could hear fine and has been fine ever since. Is this something that happens a lot? I noticed that my daughter's pediatrician started her on a medicine called "Pedialete" that has erythromycin in it. Should I be concerned about her hearing?

A: Your husband experienced a rare case of "erythromycin ototoxicity" which means that, for some reason, the drug proved toxic to the nerve cells involved in hearing. This is, fortunately, very rare and, as far as I know, has never happened when the medicine was given orally so your daughter is not at risk.

I'm sure your husband's doctor has thought of this but the great majority of cases of ototoxicity have occurred in patients who had kidney disease so this should be checked for. Thank you for an interesting letter.

Copies of Tax Returns Are Good Records

Copies of federal income tax returns from prior years not only serve as good financial records, but they can serve as guides for filling out future returns as well, the Internal Revenue Service says.

A good deal of information may be utilized from old copies, especially for those taxpayers whose financial situations stay almost the same from year to year, according to the IRS.

Being able to refer to completed returns could also be helpful to those who might later wish to amend their returns, income average, or who are called in for a tax examination. Taxpayers finding themselves in any of these situations will be glad they retained a copy of their return.

Requesting copies of prior returns can be very time consuming and costly depending on the contents of the documents requested.

McDonald's highway

Harrison McDonald is looking for the highway company. The announcement was made through and Gulfport.

"I don't know if their money is coming from the highway or not," McDonald said.

McDonald spent the past few days visiting each of the highways. "Where is it?" he asked. "It's in the highway," he said. "We've been getting it," he said.

McDonald to run for highway commissioner

Harrison County Supervisor Billy McDonald has announced he is running for the office of Southern District highway commissioner.

The announcement came Monday as McDonald made a three-city swing through Jackson, Hattiesburg, and Gulfport.

"I don't think the people of the Southern District have been getting their money's worth for their highway taxes," McDonald told a crowd of supporters in Gulfport.

"I don't believe the present highway commissioner has been responsive to the people."

McDonald told supporters he had spent the past 18 months driving the highways of South Mississippi, and visiting each county.

"Where is our highway money going?" is the question McDonald says he was most asked by taxpayers in his travels.

"We've been paying for better highways for years, but we haven't been getting them," McDonald said. "The people want to know. Where is our highway money going?"

The candidate is a three-term supervisor and president of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors.

During his tenure, he has paved two thirds of the roads in his constituent district, and he plans to bring a more businesslike approach to the Highway Commissioner's office, he said.

Currently serving as chairman of the Harrison County Private Industry Council, McDonald was recently appointed by the governor to serve on Mississippi's United States Bicentennial Commission.

A former teacher and coach, McDonald is a member of the Mississippi Special Olympics Committee.

A 1967 graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi, McDonald is married to the former Elaine Nixon of Jackson. They have three children, and reside in Harrison County.

Pan Am awards test stand contracts

Pan Am World Services, NASA's facilities operating support contractor at the National Space Technology Laboratories, has selected Utility Steel Fabrication Inc. of Slidell, La., to fabricate and install an engine diffuser.

The diffuser is a structure which encloses the engine nozzle and simulates engine operating conditions in the vacuum of space. The contract is valued at $1,149,864.

This contract is the last of seven that Pan Am has awarded as NASA's prime contractor responsible for overseeing construction to modify NSTL's B-1 test stand.

The B-1 modification will provide NSTL with a third position for static firing shuttle main engines individually. When B-1 is completed in November, all four of the installation's test positions will be operations for the first time.

Utility Steel was also awarded a $246,876 contract to erect a steel structure which will support the engine and run tanks during tests.

Nichols Construction Corp. of Baton Rouge, La., was selected to relocate a hydrogen vessel in the test complex as part of an $80,180 contract.

CVI Inc. of Columbus, Ohio, was awarded a $584,830 contract to fabricate cryogenic components.

Also, Gottfried Corp. of Covington, La., was selected to modify the high pressure industrial water system, a $393,000 contract. Sharp Electric of Gulfport was awarded the $457,262 electrical contract and Industrial Contractors Inc. of Idaho Falls, Idaho, was awarded the mechanical installation contract valued at $739,699.

These awards total $3,651,711 in contracts that Pan Am has issued for construction work on the B-1 modification project.

Conference will examine aging issues

Beverly Hogan, executive director of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, will be the keynote speaker at this year's Mississippi Joint Conference on Aging, March 18-20 at the Royal D'Arville in Biloxi.

Hogan, who will speak at the opening session at 1:30 p.m. March 18, will discuss issues relating to senior citizens throughout the state. She, and other local, regional and national aging advocates, will follow the theme "Dimensions of Change: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

A joint effort to examine and improve aging services in the state, the conference also will provide education and training to those within the system, strengthen the aging network by coordinating resources and improve the delivery of needed services to Mississippi's elderly.

Conference sponsors include the Mississippi Council on Aging, Federal-State Programs, Mississippi Department of Health, Mississippi Department of Mental Health, Mississippi Gerontological Society, Mississippi Geriatric Education Center, the University of Mississippi Medical Center, and Action, the federal agency for voluntary activities.

Preconference workshops, which include "Death and Dying," "Interdisciplinary Health Care" and "Performance Based Contracting," will begin at 9 a.m. March 18. A "Research Symposium" on the black elderly in Mississippi is also scheduled for 9 a.m.

Prior to Mrs. Hogan's address, senior citizens from Northeast Mississippi will provide entertainment. Concurrent workshops on "Long-Term Care Programs and Services," "Insurance: Issues for Seniors" and "Over 40 and Fabulous: Positive Attitudes About Aging" will begin at 3 p.m.

Dan Quirk, director of the National Association of State Units on Aging, Washington, D.C., will open the March 19 sessions with a discussion of national legislative aging issues at 8:30 a.m. State aging issues also will be discussed. Workshops on "Gaps in Health Service Delivery," "Mental Health Problems in Elders: Recognition and Resources," "Accounting for Performance Based Contracting" and "Beyond the Nutrition Sites: Senior Centers and Day Care Centers" will follow at 10:30 a.m.

Aging service awards will be presented by MCOA director Dr.

David K. Brown and James Anderson, MGS president, at noon, followed by workshops on "Factors Contributing to Gaps in Health Service Delivery," "Community Resources," "Family Caregivers for Elders: Networking Community Support," "Adult Protective Services: The Law-The Service" and "Compliance Audits" at 2 p.m.

March 20 workshops, which begin at 9 a.m., include "Health Policy Recommendations," "Exercise to Music" and "The Changing Face of Home Health Care." Therapeutic Recreation Specialist Clare Schaefer of Tucson, Ariz. will speak at 11 a.m.

Conference fees, prior to March 18, are $55, full fee (includes luncheon); $30, (one day) full fee; $25, senior citizens and students (includes luncheon); and $10 senior citizens and students (no meals), when paid in advance. The conference qualifies for continuing education credits.

For registration information, phone the Council on Aging at 949-2064, or write Mississippi Gerontological Society, P. O. Box 55574, Jackson, Ms. 39216-4506.

Special grant received for polymer synthesis

A $9,900 grant to the University of Southern Mississippi College of Science and Technology will fund a series of polymer synthesis research tests.

The grant by Imperial Chemical Industries, which is headquartered in Runcorn, England, will support the research efforts of a visiting scientist at USM.

Dr. Anselm Griffin, director of the project, said the project allows USM to work with some of the best people in ICI and, at the same time, receive the rights to all research data that may result from the program.

"ICI, the largest chemical company in the United Kingdom, is very interested in polymers," Griffin said.

The second of the researchers, Dr. Rowena Sellens of King's College, University of London, will arrive soon and begin research in polymer synthesis.

Griffin said USM was chosen from among several schools across the nation because of its work in polymer synthesis.

A native of Leland, Griffin holds joint appointments in both the chemistry and polymer science departments at USM.

Medical Center study could help nation

Information from 4,000 black residents of Jackson could ultimately benefit the nation's entire black population.

The 4,000 will be randomly selected for a University of Mississippi Medical Center project which will help doctors understand why blacks are more susceptible than whites to heart and blood vessel disease—the leading cause of death in the United States.

The project is funded by the National Institutes of Health (NIH). UMC has an NIH grant for $5.4 million for conducting its portion of study. Other participating centers include Johns Hopkins University, Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest University, the University of North Carolina and the University of Minnesota.

Called ARIC (Atherosclerosis Risk in Communities), the project will determine the incidence of heart and blood vessel disease in the four geographic regions of the participating centers and then study all the factors which doctors now think make people susceptible to heart attack, angina and sudden death from heart failure.

Dr. Robert Hutchinson, professor of medicine at UMC and Dr. Robert Watson, professor of medicine at UMC and Dr. Robert Watson, professor of preventive medicine, are project directors for the Mississippi portion of the study. "We're the only center in the study which will look at the black population exclusively," Hutchinson said. "Jackson residents have a unique opportunity to participate in something that will have immense significance for their children, their children's children and the entire black population of the United States."

High blood pressure is a known risk factor for heart and blood vessel disease, and it's about twice as common in blacks as it is in whites, Hutchinson said.

Project workers will contact potential volunteers by knocking on doors in the inner city. Those who fit the requirements are asked to come to the Medical Center for evaluation.

"They won't get medical treatment here, but they will receive a useful physical and laboratory evaluation. If we see something that should be taken care of, the information will be given to the clinic or physician the volunteer usually goes to for medical treatment."

Ultrasound is used to detect early changes in the walls of arteries. The investigators are looking for fatty deposits which can eventually clog arteries and impede the flow of blood.

ARIC physicians will monitor these changes in the arterial walls over a period of several years and try to relate those changes to specific risk factors.

"Much of what we know, by far, about the relationship of certain risk factors—obesity, lack of exercise, high blood pressure, cigarette smoking, and high cholesterol—to heart and blood vessel disease has been learned through the Framingham study," Hutchinson said. The study, also funded by NIH, has followed residents in Framingham, Mass., for 30 years and is now following their children. "Framingham has yielded unbelievably important information," Hutchinson said.

But Framingham only examined the predominantly white residents in one geographic location. ARIC wants to expand on the knowledge gained from Framingham by studying people in other locations and examining the black population more closely. Study investigators also want to measure the importance of blood clotting factors and certain lipids—something not included in the Framingham study.

Two gubernatorial forums planned by State Bar

The Associated Press Broadcasters Association and the Young Lawyers Section of the Mississippi State Bar will co-sponsor two gubernatorial forums prior to the primary elections next summer.

Bill Zortman of WDAM-TV, Laurel-Hattiesburg, President of the broadcasters group, stated that the first forum will be held in the Old Capitol Building in Jackson on April 25 at 9 a.m. in conjunction with the group's annual convention.

The second forum will be held on June 4 at 10 a.m. at the Biloxi Hilton Hotel in conjunction with the convention of the Mississippi State Bar, according to Rick Barry of Meridian, president of the State Bar's Young Lawyers Section.

Each announced candidate for governor will be invited to participate in both forums.

The format of each forum will allow the candidates to make a formal statement and to respond to questions from a panel of media representatives from members of the sponsoring groups.

The Broadcasters Association and the Young Lawyers Section also plan to co-sponsor a debate between the two party nominees on Oct. 20, 1987, which is two weeks prior to the general election.

The Louisiana-Mississippi Associated Press Association will be an additional sponsor of the debate. For further information, contact Bill Zortman, 601-544-4730, or Rick Barry, 601-693-2393.

Supervisors still considering road and bridge spending problem

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is still trying to resolve a problem with overspending in the county's road and bridge account.

Although the board decided to look at the problem March 2, Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner has been contending for several months that the county's road and bridge funds are being spent too fast.

The board is presently trying to reduce the problem to some degree with a $100,000 transfer from the county general fund, but Chancery Clerk Michael Nease says that the transfer must be repaid by the end of September and that something must be done about the spending before employees are hurt.

County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson said Friday that three employees have already been voluntarily cut back to part time.

Beat One supervisor Bert Courge asked the board to go on record showing that exceptionally rainy weather conditions helped contribute to increased road and bridge spending during December, January and February.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner had volunteered to assist Johnson in monitoring spending and determining priorities by meeting with him daily, but withdrew his offer after the board provided him authorization to do so.

"I'll do it with the whole board but I'm not going to be the only one. I can see it's going to cause resentment if I do," Ladner said.

Johnson, however, said he would welcome any help from the supervisors.

Board President and Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar contended that if any spending is to be continued, it should be evenly distributed in all five beats.

Beat Five Supervisor James Travica suggested that the county should have half its crews come in on Mondays and the other half start the workweek on Tuesdays, but Beat Four Supervisor Sam Pernicaro said such salary cuts would be detrimental to the workers.

Pernicaro said he had already had some of the workers tell him that they would have to seek other employment if their hours are cut any more than they already have been.

Ladner said the only way to cut spending is to first provide for fixed costs such as utilities, salaries and fuel, then divide the rest as working funds.

Johnson contends that he has been reducing spending on a month-to-month basis and is not responsible for all of the money taken out of road and bridge, since fixed costs and some of the funds the board itself spends, such as payments on loans, are beyond his control.

Courge disputed some of Johnson's spending figures Friday, stating that some of the money was reimbursed by the State Aid Road Program, included carried-over beat funds from last year, or were part of separate loans like one for the county barn.

Kellar mentioned the possibility of the board having a daily executive session meeting with Johnson to discuss spending relating to personnel, but no action was taken.

The matter is expected to be brought up for discussion again on Wednesday, when the board will meet at 9 a.m. in the courthouse.

Frank McNeil qualifies for sheriff's race

Frank McNeil, Hancock County School attendance officer, has qualified for Hancock County Sheriff. McNeil is a former New Orleans police detective. He retired after 16 years of service. He has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice degree from Loyola University of New Orleans.

"I am entering the sheriff's race based on my qualifications and past experience," McNeil said.

"I hope to put into effect a sound drug abuse prevention program, based on strict enforcement and removal of pushers from the streets of Hancock County and hope to be able to help educate the youth of Hancock County against the dangers of drugs," he added.

A native of New Orleans, McNeil has been a resident of Hancock County since 1979. He is married to the former Debbie Garcia of Lakeshore.

Chamber Morning Edition slated

Leonard Bockman, director of the Mississippi Contract Procurement Center in Gulfport, will be the featured speaker at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition coffee, set for Thursday, March 19, beginning at 7:30 a.m.

The meeting, sponsored by Econo-Call, will be held at The Landmark Townsquare Restaurant, 210 Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

Bockman will be discussing the Mississippi Contract Procurement Center, and will present facts on Federal/DOD contract opportunities, information on bid preparations and technical assistance.

Bockman is a retired Lieutenant Colonel from the U.S. Army Military Academy at West Point, with 27 years of distinguished service. He served as Chief Procurement Officer in Vietnam, Procurement Inspector General in Europe, Procurement Instructor at Fort Lee, Virginia, and was a designated Department of Defense Procurement Specialist.

All Chamber members and their guests are urged to attend this meeting.

Further information is available by contacting the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Commodity distribution set

The Hancock County Department of Public Welfare will distribute USDA commodities of flour, rice, honey, butter and cheese on Wednesday at the Waveland American Legion on Coleman Avenue from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The food will be distributed until supply runs out or until 2 p.m., whichever comes first. All food stamp recipients are eligible. Any low income household may apply at the Food Stamp Office on March 16 and 17. A signed voucher is necessary to pick up the commodities.

"If you cannot come, you can give your voucher to another person to pick it up. Be sure to sign the front of the voucher and sign the back of the voucher. You also have to tell us who is picking up your commodities. If this is not done, we cannot give your commodities to that person," according to Darlene Peterson, program supervisor.

Klein-Seay

Jeannie Seay became the bride of Steve Klein in an afternoon wedding on February 24 at St. John Catholic Church in Lakeshore. The Reverend Lambert Stank celebrated a Nuptial Mass.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Seay of Lakeshore. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Klein Sr. of Clermont Harbor.

Musical selections were presented by Carole Mitchell, aunt of the bride, organist; and Nicole Ingersoll, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin in traditional styling with high lace collar on a sheer yoke of English net with Juliet puffed upper sleeves tapering to the wrists. The fitted bodice was appliqued with beaded Venise lace. The V-waistline gave way to a full circular skirt with hand-clipped European laces. An insert of schiffli lace extended from the front waist in a deep scallop to the back. Identical lace bordered the hemline and encircled the cathedral train.

She wore a contour wreath of satin roses centered with pearls which had an illusion post at the back with fingertip length veil.

The bride carried a cascade of white silk roses, ivy, baby's breath and pearls.

Beba McCaleb of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Maid of honor was Lori Herrman of Lakeshore.

Bridesmaids were Kathy Davis of Anseley and Carole Osbourne of Lakeshore, sisters of the bride; Denise Seay, sister-in-law of the bride and Dede Bernond, both of Lakeshore; Lisa Saunders of Bay St. Louis and Lynn Folse of Jackson, sisters of the groom.

The attendants were attired in red taffeta gowns each with fitted bodice, asymmetrical neckline, long fitted sleeves and dropped diagonal waistline with full flared skirt.

They carried nosegays of red silk roses, miniature white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Nicole McCordle of Lakeshore, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and Miss Lynsey Davis, niece of the bride, of Anseley was miniature bride.

Joey Moran of Kiln was best man.

Groomsmen were Russell Seay, Philip Seay and Raymond Seay of Lakeshore, brothers of the bride; Lee Klein Jr., brother of the groom and Keith Herndon, both of Waveland; Frank Klein III of Clermont Harbor, cousin of the groom; and Michael Nussbaum of Lakeshore.

Ushers were Mark Perry of Lakeshore, cousin of the bride, and Philip Lichtenstein of Pearlington.

Chad Davis of Anseley, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer and Kyle Folse of Jackson, nephew of the groom, was miniature groom.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Hancock County Fairgrounds. The couple resides in Lakeshore.

SUNDAY, MARCH 15, 1987-1B

FASHION FLAIR—Judy Gay, left, and Sarah Jacob model fashions which will be featured in the upcoming "Fashion Flair and Fancy Style Show" at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. The show, sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary, will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 21. A donation of $10 per person is requested and refreshments will be served. Fashions for the event will be supplied by The Princess Shoppe in Bay St. Louis. Door prizes will be given away along with a quilt bar. Judy is wearing a hand-torned knit suit in 100 percent cotton with a nautical motif. Sarah wears a two-piece linen suit in navy blue with nautical buttons. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Krenek-Waits

At the Apostle Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis, the wedding of Mary Elizabeth Waits of Pass Christian and Christopher Barrett Krenek of Huntsville, Ala., was celebrated by the Reverend Louis Lohan, the Reverend Clement Kovach and the Reverend Rudy Miller.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Waits of Pass Christian. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Krenek of Jackson.

Musical selections were provided by organist Tom Bourdin of Pass Christian and soloist Helen Signer of New Orleans.

Altar servers were Ryan Waits and Michael Waits of Mobile, Ala., cousins of the bride.

Honorary gift bearers were godparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. August Sytek of Bay City, Tex.

Readings from scripture were rendered by Maria Capriello of Hyattsville, Md.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory peau-de-soie and Alencon lace. The full-length gown, fashioned with a chapel-length train, was styled with fitted bodice adorned with pearls, and featured a satinet waistline and long tapered sleeves. The matching vest accompanied with a trusted custom-tailored, two-quarter veil of illusion was held by a pseudo-soft fabric band decorated with appliques of lace motifs and pearls. The blusher veil was held in place by posts of illusion.

She carried a prayer book which belonged to her maternal grandmother and a cascade of white phalaenopsis orchids interspersed with stephanotis, daisies and English ivy.

Suzanne T. Waits of Washington, D. C., attended her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Stacie Humphreys of Pensacola, Fla.; Mary Smaldore of College Park, Md.; Cheryl Bankston of Jackson; and Nancy Martinovich of Bay St. Louis.

First Lieutenant Clayton Krenek of Omaha, Neb., brother of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Mark Carta of Tequesta, Fla.; Mark Tracy and Robert Hughey of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. and William Waits of Pass Christian.

Ushers were Mike Johnson of Huntsville, Ala. and Keith Taylor of Los Angeles, Calif.

A reception followed at the Broadwater Country Club Ballroom.

On return from a ski trip to Colorado, the couple resides in Huntsville.

Pass Christian Garden Club

"Flower shows should be fun," according to Mrs. John Holmes of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club. Mrs. Holmes, speaker at the March 5 meeting of the Pass Christian Garden Club in the Hancock Bank Annex, spoke on "Designing to Win," playing by the rules and practice in making arrangements will go a long way toward winning ribbons, she advised.

Jean Heibel, chairman of the Spring Flower Show presented schedules for the show. The theme is "The Good Earth" and will be held Thursday, April 23 in the Hancock Bank Annex.

Mrs. Heibel noted that members should make their selections from the schedules and register their choice of entry with her as soon as possible.

On Thursday, March 26 the 40th Annual Spring Pilgrimage in Pass Christian will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. Brochures for the pilgrimage were passed out by Estella Drevar, local chairman. The pilgrimage is sponsored, annually, by the Mississippi Gulf Coast of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Drevar pointed out that there is a new interest in Pass Christian - the Parade of Gardens. There will be four gardens of homes on Wisteria Drive to visit and one garden on Camellia Drive.

Tea will be served at the home of Mrs. Sally Burk on Menge Avenue, in the Pineville area. Time for this hospitality is from 2:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Burke's home built about 1925 is a magnificent two-story home on Bayou Portage.

Plans are underway for a tour of Longue Gardens in New Orleans. Members interested in the making the trip are to contact tour chairman Maryon Spillman or president Kay Chapman.

Maureen Newcomb announced that April 2 meeting will be a spring garden picnic at noon in War Memorial Park. Entertainment will be provided by Mr. Bill Cole, whose specialty is Civil War attire and music. This will be a brown bag lunch. Hostesses will provide drinks and are: Mrs. Peter O. Schmid, Mrs. Ronald Santos, Mrs. R. Farnell McKay and Mrs. F. Herman Ralufs.

Russ-Swilley

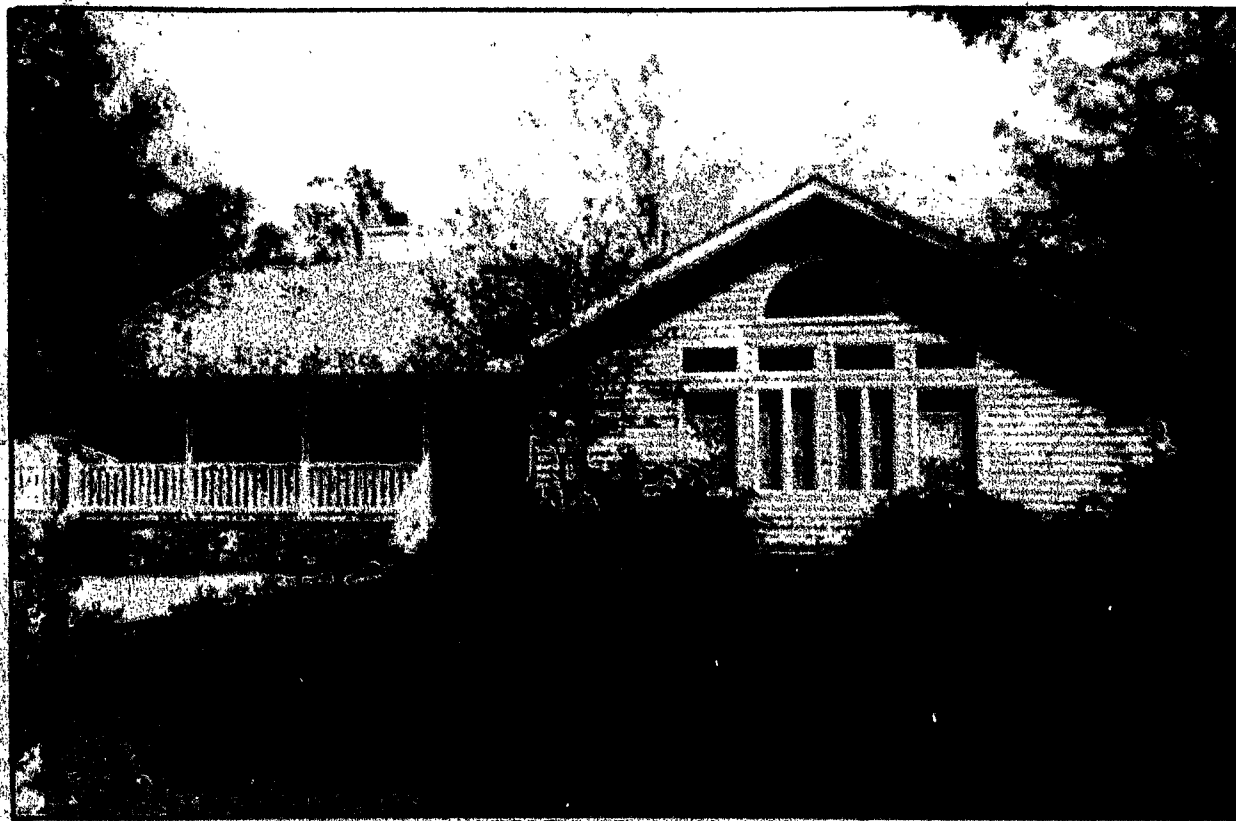

The engagement and approaching marriage of Lisa Rene Russ to Terry Lynn Swilley is announced by her parents, Annette S. Russ and Jimmy G. Russ of Long Beach. Mr. Swilley is the son of Herman L. Swilley of Pass Christian and the late Gladys Q. Swilley.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Long Beach High School. She is employed with United Parcel Service.

The prospective groom is a 1980 graduate of Hancock North Central High School and is self-employed.

First Presbyterian Church of Gulfport will be the setting for the March 24 marriage at 6 p.m. with readings following at the St. Paul Episcopal Church in Pass Christian.

Family and friends are invited to attend.

THE HOME OF JOHN AND GINGER ADAMS, 318 Union Ave., Bay St. Louis, will be open 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. during the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's Spring Pilgrimage. This home was undergoing several transformations since the days it was a private shop when Union Avenue was Highway 90. The latest change has been a complete remodeling of the existing house with an addition of over 1000 square feet. The marble entry leads into a spacious living room with hardwood floors and a see-thru fireplace that adjoins the dining area. French doors open onto the back deck which includes a unique hot tub designed by John Adams which overlooks the St. Augustine Seminary grounds. Of special interest will be a display of fresh flowers throughout the house. Refreshments will be served on a rear deck. (Bay-Waveland Garden Club Photo)

Boxx, right. This service is offered by the auxiliary to local elementary schools to aid in the detection of this crippling disease, which can usually be corrected without surgery if found in the early stages.

SOMEONE TO TALK TO—Puppets are used to convey a positive message to children concerning the problem of child abuse. The show, presented to kindergartners and first graders in local schools, is staged by the Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary. Child abuse awareness is the focus of the national organization of Junior Auxiliaries, whose purpose is to render charitable services with particular emphasis on the welfare of children. The local chapter funds these programs with revenues from their annual fashion show, this year entitled "Fashion, Flair and Finery", to be presented March 21 at 7 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis Yacht Club. Fashions from The Princess Shoppe with makeup by Just For You and hairstyles by Trendsetters and Co. Tickets are $10.00 and are available at The Family Tree, The Princess Shoppe or any Junior Auxiliary member.

Take Off Pounds Sensibly

TOPS No. 213 Pass Christian met March 10. Top loser for the week was Jeannie Livings. Total loss for the club for the week was 31 3/4 pounds. Adrenne Dedeaux earned a charm for losing 20 pounds. Elections of officers will be held March 17 at the regular business meeting. Weight-ins are between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. The meeting is held every Tuesday at the Pass Christian Library on Hiern Avenue between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. For more information, call Jeannie Livings at 452-9706 or Lois Van Dyke at 467-5162.

American Legion Auxiliary and Crafty Homemakers' Extension Club

The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139 and Crafty Homemakers' Extension Club, co-sponsors of the "sing-a-long" at the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement home met on Thursday, March 5, at 2 p.m. Our guest was Little Miss Poppy of Unit 139, Miss Joy Lynn Gillan. She visited with the residents and encouraged them to participate in the singing. Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano while Mrs. Roslyn Weathers led the singing, and Mmes. Oris Planchard and Evelyn Burns, mingled with the residents to join in with the singing. Refreshments were served which the residents enjoyed very much and a "Happy Birthday" was sung to the residents who will share birthdays during the month.

Mississippi Coast Organist Association

The Mississippi Coast Organist Association held their monthly meeting at the Biloxi Motor Inn on March 8. The secretary read a letter from the Slidell Organ club expressing their desire to visit our association again. Plans are being worked out for a joint meeting with them. Members played on a Wurlitzer organ provided by Werlein's. Membership is open to amateur organists or to those interested in organ music. The MCOA meets the second Sunday monthly at the Biloxi Motor Inn.

Gulfport Newcomers Club

Margaret Hanson of Gulfport was installed as president of the Gulf Coast Newcomers Club on March 10 during a luncheon meeting at the Best Western Inn, Gulfport. Other officers who will serve with Mrs. Hanson for 1987 are Lois Boren, Biloxi, first vice president; Gunay Ali, Long Beach; second vice president; Ann Collins, Gulfport; recording secretary; Bettie Kendall, Gulfport; corresponding secretary; Clarissa Howard, Biloxi; treasurer. Toni Pizante, retiring president, installed the officers in a candlelighting rainbow ceremony. Completing the new board are Diana Cooke, Biloxi, parliamentarian/historian; social chairman, Jean Bogan, Long Beach; hospitality, Cheryl Greenfield, Gulfport; bridge, Lynn Isely, Gulfport; crafts, Fran Lee, Long Beach; ways and means, Lorraine Pallet, Diamondhead; community services, Sally Rusk, Pass Christian; newsletter editor, Anna Clare Tomlin, Biloxi. Newcomers Club meets the second Tuesday of each month at 11 a.m. Any woman who has recently moved to the Gulf Coast is eligible for membership. For further information call Gulfport 532-8771 or 565-3058.

ETV Briefs

TV GARDENING

In the second program in Mississippi ETV's new "Gardening Southern Style" series, "Spring Flowering Shrubs and Trees," host Felder Rushing takes an on-location trip to Bellingrath Gardens in Mobile for a tour and for tips on how to grow healthy azaleas, such as the ones in Mobile - known to gardening enthusiasts as "Azalea City."

"Spring Flowering Shrubs and Trees" can be seen at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 18, on Mississippi ETV. The program is rebroadcast at 3 p.m., Saturday.

Also in this program, Felder and his guests offer viewers some advice on selecting the proper garden tools for soil conditioning; give an overview of rosebushes, including how to select those that will perform well in the South; and begin construction on the raised-bed garden that was planned in the first episode of the series. "Gardening Southern Style" is a production of Mississippi Educational Television and is currently being broadcast around the Southeast by the Southern Educational Communications Association (SECA).

Felder Rushing also is the author of the book "Gardening Southern Style," published by University Press of Mississippi. For more information about the book, interested persons should write Gardening Southern Style, Mississippi ETV, P.O. Box 1101, Jackson, Mississippi 39215-1101.

SUPERSTARS

The Carter Family and Johnny Cash are among the headliners for a three-hour country music extravaganza, "Country Music Legends," at 8:10 p.m., Saturday, March 14, on Mississippi ETV.

"Country Music Legends" is part of Festival '87, a period of special programming designed to increase viewer awareness of public television.

Joining the Carter Family and Cash to salute the stars of yesterday and celebrate the stars of today are Willie Nelson, Loretta Lynn, Mickey Gilley, Randy Travis, George Strait, Mel Tillis, Chet Atkins, Patti Page and Roger Miller. They will pay tribute to such legends as Fats Domino, Bob Wills, Lefty Frizzell and Merle Travis.

Joffrey II Dancers to perform

The Biloxi Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts will host the Joffrey II Dancers for a one night performance on April 27 at 8 p.m.

The event is being sponsored by the City of Biloxi, Mayor Gerald Blaney and the City Council.

Ticket prices for reserved seats are $18; general admission and children under 12, $10.

The box office will be open at the Saenger April 10-24 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased in advance by contacting Mississippi Music in Edgewater Mall (801) 388-6647 or the Gulf Coast Arts Council (801) 388-1974.

Advanced ticket prices are reserved seats, $12.50; general admission and children under 12, $10. Advanced ticket sales will end April 16.

For further information, call the Saenger at (801) 435-6291.

Chamber slates seminar on government

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a free seminar on the Mississippi Contract Procurement Center in Gulfport on Wednesday, March 25, from 7-9 p.m. at the Chamber office.

Leonard Bockman, director of the center, will be the speaker for the seminar and will discuss such topics as Federal/DOD contract opportunities, helpful information on bid preparations, technical assistance and free inclusion in the "Contractor's Register," a computerized data bank of current formal bid opportunities.

Bockman is a retired Lieutenant Colonel from the U.S. Army Military Academy in West Point with 27 years of distinguished service. He served as Chief Procurement Officer in Vietnam, Procurement Inspector General in Europe, Procurement Instructor at Fort Lee, Virginia, and was a designated Department of Defense Procurement Specialist.

The public is cordially invited to attend the seminar, and further information is available by contacting the Chamber office at 467-0044.

Bay council okays preliminary subdivision plats

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to approve a preliminary subdivision and extension of Westwood Village subdivision, recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

However, Bay Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz said, he would probably veto the action after a public hearing on the matter.

The preliminary plat for the extension of Westwood Village subdivision was also approved as submitted.

W. William Webb, who submitted the plat, also provided a $25,000 performance bond to be paid to the city if the subdivision is not approved.

from Farmer's Home Administration. Estimated cost for the project is $1,750,000. Board Attorney Gerald Gez said the board has the statutory Frankiewicz said these would be unenforceable until after the house was built and that the city should have the authority to prevent what might be a detriment to the community from being constructed.

The minutes of the meeting are expected to be submitted to Frankiewicz sometime this week and he has 10 days to veto the action.

The preliminary plat for the extension of Westwood Village subdivision was also approved as submitted.

W. William Webb, who submitted the plat, also provided a $25,000 performance bond to be paid to the city if the subdivision is not approved.

assured the council the paying could be completed within 30-60 days.

The council tabled a planning commission recommendation to deny a request by Norbert Konke for a zoning change from single-family residential 100-foot lot to single-family residential 80-foot lot.

Councilman Charles Johnson recommended the action after a lengthy discussion so the councilmen could have an opportunity to view the area in question.

Area residents appeared at the meeting to protest the zoning change stating they believed Konke intended to put in a small subdivision, although some owners in the area had substantially large home sites.

Planning Commission Chairman Joe Marichino said the denial had been based on the facts that no error could be found on the zoning map, no hardship could be determined and there had been no change in the neighborhood.

These are the reasons stated in the zoning ordinance which would allow for the change and the approval of this request would be spot zoning, he added.

Also during the meeting the council discussed a continuing controversy between the city and the Waveland Regional Wastewater Authority on the proposed county sewer district which would not allow

Hockett says Waste Management needs to find an area less densely populated to put the landfill.
Approximately 200 to 300 tons of household garbage coming from Black Camp, Long Beach and all of rural Hancock County will be dumped daily at the landfill, Hockett said.

Bay council okays preliminary subdivision plats

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to approve a patio home subdivision and extension of Westwood Village. The subdivision was also approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

However, Bay Mayor Victor J.
Frankiewicz said, he would probably veto the subdivision of the patio homes. He said the homes would be built on a 10-acre site located on the east side of the city.
The subdivision would consist of 100 lots, each about 1/4 acre in size.
The homes would be built on the lots and would be sold to the public.
The subdivision would be a part of the Westwood Village subdivision.

tion.
Estimated cost for the project is $4,750,000. Board Attorney Gerald Gex said the board has the statutory

Frankiewicz said these would be unenforceable until after the house was built and that the city should have the authority to prevent what might be a detriment to the community from being constructed.
The subdivision of the meeting area expected to be submitted to Frankiewicz sometime this week and he has 10 days to veto the action.

The preliminary plat for the extension of Westwood Village subdivision was also approved as submitted.
W. Wayne Waters, who submitted the plat, also provided a $25,000 performance bond as required to insure the subdivision be paved.
Waters said the ground was too saturated to pave at this time but assured the council the paving could be completed within 30-60 days.

The council tabled a planning commission recommendation to deny a request by Norbert Konke for a zoning change from single-family residential 100-foot lot to single-family residential 20-foot lot.
Councilman Charles Johnson recommended the action after a lengthy discussion so the councilmen could have an opportunity to view the area in question.

Area residents appeared at the meeting to protest the zoning change stating they believed Konke intended to put in a small subdivision although other owners in the area had substantially large home sites.

Planning Commission Chairman
Joe Marichino said the denial had been based on the facts that no error could be found on the zoning map, no hardship could be determined and there had been no change in the neighborhood.

These are the reasons stated in the zoning ordinance which would allow for the change and the approval of this request would be spot zoning, he added.

Also during the meeting the council discussed a continuing controversy between the city and the Waveland Regional Wastewater Authority on the proposed county sewer district which would not allow

Bay council okays preliminary subdivision plats

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to approve a preliminary plat for the extension of Westwood Village subdivision, recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

However, Bay Mayor Victor J. Franchewicz said, he would probably veto the action.

The preliminary plat for the extension of Westwood Village subdivision was also approved as submitted.

W. Wilson Webb, who submitted the plat, also provided a test of performance and he requested to insure the subdivision be paved. Webb said the ground was too saturated to pave at this time but Franchewicz said these would be unenforceable until after the house was built and that the city should have the authority to prevent what might be a detriment to the community from being constructed.

The minutes of the meeting are expected to be submitted to Franchewicz sometime this week and he has 10 days to veto the action.

The preliminary plat for the extension of Westwood Village subdivision was also approved as submitted.

W. Wilson Webb, who submitted the plat, also provided a test of performance and he requested to insure the subdivision be paved. Webb said the ground was too saturated to pave at this time but assured the council the paving could be completed within 30-60 days.

The council tabled a planning commission recommendation to deny a request by Norbert Konhke for a zoning change from single-family residential 100-foot lot to single-family residential 50-foot lot.

Councilman Charles Johnson recommended the action after a lengthy discussion so the commission could have an opportunity to view the area in question.

Area residents appeared at the meeting to protest the zoning change stating they believed Konhke intended to put in a small subdivision although other owners in the area had substantially large home sites.

Planning Commission Chairman Joe Marichino said the denial had been based on the facts that no error could be found on the zoning map, no hardship could be determined and there had been no change in the neighborhood.

These are the reasons stated in the zoning ordinance which would allow for the change and the approval of this request would be spot zoning, he added.

Also during the meeting the council discussed a continuing controversy between the city and the Waveland Regional Wastewater Authority on the proposed county sewer district which would not allow
